

FAQS

Is the Mentorship Program open to non-DI members?

No. The program is only open to active DI members.

Is there a cost to participate?

No. The Mentorship Program is a member benefit for any destination professional and industry partner.

How do I sign up?

Sign up at <https://shortlink.upnotch.com/cRNBdalewUb>. Upon doing so, you will be approved by the DI team and can then begin setting up your profile.

Is there an app version?

Yes. Search "Upnotch" in your app store.

Will I be able to access the Mentorship Program through our DI Member login?

No. Access will only be through the Upnotch platform at this time.

Do I have to be of a certain professional level to serve as a mentor?

No! Anyone can serve as a mentor. We all have valuable insights, perspectives and experiences to share with others.

Can I serve as a mentor and mentee?

Yes. You can set up how you would like to serve when setting up your account and adjust at any time.

How can I see all mentors or mentees in the Program?

Simply click on the "Members" link on the far-left panel. From there, filter by location, experience, interests, etc.

Should I integrate my calendar during the set-up process?

We recommend it. That way, others can book time based on up-to-date availability.

Does integrating my calendar give Upnotch access to my organization's entire calendar system, and is this level of access required?

No. Upnotch does not need access to your entire system to enable the calendar functionality. It only requires read-only access to your specific profile email and calendar information. This means Upnotch can see availability details (whether you are free or busy), but not any details about your meetings.

Should I be going through the verification process for a verified profile?

Yes! This is a recommended step for anyone using the Upnotch platform.

What is the number of mentees you would recommend that a mentor have?

Every relationship is different, but to start, we recommend no more than 3 mentees to get a feel for what works best.
