

Good Afternoon,

We are writing today on behalf of Destinations International to launch a new idea that we are very excited about.

As we all know, music plays a vital role in our industry, at your destinations and in our lives. Music inspires, consoles, and lifts our spirits on a daily basis. We have the good fortune to play music when we're not working in our day jobs. Over the last few years, we have played at various DI functions, including the recent Spirit of Hospitality event where we had the opportunity to jam with Pat McGee and his band. It was a great and memorable experience.

So, we talked with Don and some of the team at DI and came up with a plan to create the first ever Destinations International House Band.

Of course, the starting point for any band is to assemble the talent. This includes musicians of all types, vocalists and any other hidden talents that could add to the band. The band will make its planned debut at this year's Annual Convention in St. Louis on the opening night, more details to follow from DI.

Therefore, if you are interested in being in the band, which could include singing or performing your favorite song, please send click here and fill out the form.

We are thrilled to kick this project off and hope you will consider being part of it. If not, we hope you'll be clapping and singing in St. Louis with us!

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out directly.

Gregg Shapiro
Tempest
gregg@tempest.im

Adam Sacks
Tourism Economics
adam@tourismeconomics.com